It is said that the fig crop is a sure one every year. Outside the figs then, most things that grow in this section are affected by the dry spell we have had for some time. April showers haven't made good.

Nothing To Do With It.

This paper has no fixed opinion for or against the proposed bond issue to cover the state's outstanding indebtedness. It is an open question, so far as we are concerned, to be decided by the wisdom of the people after they have reviewed all the light that will be brought before them on the subject. But one point, there should be no doubt, and that is that it is a question entirely for the wisdom of those who will be responsible for submitting it, if submitted, or rejecting or adopting it after it is submitted. The question of loyalty to one man, even though that man be the governor of Alabama, has nothing to do with the case.—Dothanopolis Times.

People's Executives And Representatives.

Birmingham Ledger.

The Washington Herald of April 23 had an editorial that in part applies to the situation in Alabama. In discussing the powers and responsibilities of the president and congress it says:

"Abraham Lincoln held the old idea and very few veto messages have the name of Lincoln attached to them. More than that Lincoln, when a member of congress in 1848, expressed himself in favor of the old idea. He was speaking on the war with Mexico, and some of the administration representatives declared that the president was as much the representative of the people as was congress. Lincoln replied:

"In a certain sense, and to a certain extent, he is the representative of the people. He is elected by them as well as congress is; but can he, in the nature of things, know the wants of all the people as well as 300 other men coming from all the various localities of the nation? If so, where is the propriety of having a congress? That the constitution gives the president a negative on legislation, all know; but that this negative should be so combined with platforms and other appliances as to enable him, and in fact almost compel him, to take the whole legislation into his own hands, is what we object to, is what General Taylor objects to, and is what constitutes the broad distinction between you and us."

The statements fit the conditions of our state. In housing the people, the people know what they were doing.

ledge of the men elected, and no man got to the legislature under any misapprehension. The members were elected to make and unmake laws. Each county knew what its representatives would do.

When the people elected a governor, it was different. The politicians got in between the people and the governorship and arranged a different scheme of nominating.

The legislators are nearer to the people and their duty is with the laws of the state. The governor's duties are different. Lincoln expressed it very clearly.

Not Anxious to Handle

The Frank Case.

Savannah News.

It is safe to say that neither Gov. Slaton nor Governor-elect Harris wants to handle the Frank case. No matter what sort of a recommendation the Prison Commission makes the final action will rest with the Governor. As already indicated in the dispatches there is a very great deal of interest in the appeal for clemency. Thousands of letters have been received by Gov. Slaton and Mr. Harris, some favoring a pardon, some commutation and some the carrying into effect of the sentence of the court. And there will be arguments which the Governor will have to hear and scores of appeals by individuals. And no matter how he decides he will not give general satisfaction. The only satisfaction he will have will be in doing his duty conscientiously. And that sort of satisfaction isn't going to save him from many days and nights of worry.

It looks a little as if the case wouldn't reach Gov. Slaton—as if his term would end before the case is ready for the Governor—but without knowing anything about the matter it seems to us that Frank's friends are going to try to get it before the Governor whom they think the more likely to be leniently inclined. It isn't improbable, therefore, that in a quiet way a very thorough study will be made of both Gov. Slaton and Mr. Harris. There is no reason to place much if any dependence for clemency upon argument, since the case has been argued to the limit. If new evidence were forthcoming the situation would be different, but so far as known there is no expectation that in the appeal to the Governor anything new will be offered for or against the condemned man. Dependence for clemency will be placed wholly upon the fact that many have expressed doubt as to his guilt. Which of the two men—Gov. Slaton and Mr. Harris—is the more likely to be influenced by that fact? That is a question that doubtless has received and is receiving attention from Frank's counsel and friends.

We do not know that they can hasten or delay the presentation of the appeal to the Governor, except in so far as they may be unprepared to present it to the Prison Commission, but we assume that they will use what legitimate means are at their disposal to get it before the Governor whom they think the more likely to be influenced by it. It would be only natural for them to adopt that course.

"Like Mother Used to Make."

From the Kansas City Times.

A man in Newark, N. J., abandoned his wife because she could not make panes like those his mother made, and he returned to the home of his parents. Thereupon the deserted wife sued her mother-in-law for $50,000 damages, alleging that, with her panes, she enticed him away.

In court the wife wept as she told how she had struggled with those panes. She had even gone to live with her mother-in-law three weeks to try and learn how to make as toothsome panes as hers were.

The husband testified that his wife was a good woman; only thing he had against her was that she could not make panes like those his mother made, and he could not live without them.

The jury decided in favor of the mother-in-law.

The newspapers of Newark, had a good deal of merriment over this lawsuit, and none of them gave any sympathy to the wife or a serious thought to the tragedy that came into her life because she could not provide panes "like mother used to make." But newspapers are mostly written by men.

A good many married women in Newark and in every other place, will feel strongly for this wife who tried earnestly to please her husband with her cooking, and failed. They have been through the same trying experience. A little thing like that has ruined the happiness of many a home.

In this city, a few years ago, a man sued his wife for divorce, and at the trial it developed that they fell out about doughnuts. She could not make doughnuts as good as his mother's. He sent home to his mother for a parcel of her doughnuts to show his wife how they excelled hers, and when they came the wife, at the end of her patience, tossed them out of the window.

The judge who heard the case refused the divorce, declaring that the wife did exactly right, and he told the man that a husband who cured more for doughnuts than he did for his good wife was "pretty small potatoes." To which every wife will agree.

The "nagging wife" is proverbial. But what about the nagging husband?

"Lawrence Era."

The Advertiser, as formerly predicted in these columns, has a rich and rare dissertation on the passing of Brooks Lawrence. It is the biggest news item it has carried in months, and, indeed we may say years.

The Advertiser, gravely removes its glasses and leans back, with a forced frown on its furrowed cheeks, and speaks deeply on the condition of Churches. It fears that Brooks Lawrence has done no good; it fears that his fight, through the church, has probably given certain members extreme cases of chilly feet, and that the Churches will never be themselves again. Not unless the members quit their foibles and go back to "safe and sane" practices.

The Advertiser, with hand to side of its mouth, wails in low breath: "Whether he has promoted temperance in Alabama is a debatable question. If he has promoted temperance, the next question is whether or not the price we have paid in good will and brotherly love has not been too great."

Yes—Great question, in the mind of The Advertiser.

THE BLIND PROLETARIAN

In Louisville Courier-Journal, that a large number of wedding invitations fail to reach their destination, whenever a blinding of great social importance occurs is a tradition which served to get many a bride, many a bride's family, out of a tight place, and to mollify a hurt or spite individual of the socially eligible class in a snobbish sense of the term. It has received no engraved request to lead to the occasion the presence of his or her presence, such a stir has been caused by failure of a barrel or so of invitations to the Biddle-Duke wedding, of interest in New York Philadelphia society, to be over that an investigation is made of the Philadelphia master to determine who could be blamed. An avalanche of wedding invitations may appear to busy persons as a silly manifestation of the ostentatious ways of the socially supreme, and especially, that deserve no encouragement alongside of the honest efforts of the proprietor of an optician's pill to put suffering humanity in the way of getting relief by sending 1,000,000 circulars through the mail. But the blind proletarian is wrong in his estimate of the relative importance of the pill prospectus, with its promise of health and happiness, to the stunted, stereotyped idea that the recipient is deemed a fit person to be on hand when the marriage takes place. It is one whose gift will be no more to the contracting parties. It is also to be considered the social importance of the wedding invitation. That is a matter of which the postoffice is not to be fully informed. It does not, as a class, realize the wedding invitation lost, checked into the waste basket.

AUTHORITY.

By George Fitch.

Authority is the right to tell some other man what to do. It is the oldest of all rights. Long before the first man had found another man small enough to kick for disobedience, he had discovered that he was stronger than his wife.

Today, any man who lives in the wide world to order around, can still go thankfully home and tell some shrinking woman, in kindly tones, that dinner had better be ready a little earlier tomorrow, in domestic value.

Authority is harder to use correctly than an aeroplane. Some men are natural geniuses with authority, and are able to suggest the duties of the ten thousand other men in such a manner as to make themselves the recipients of affection and gold-headed umbrellas on anniversaries. But most men handle authority as awkwardly as they would a ball gown. The world is full of men who have been invested with the management of one or two human beings apiece, and are giving up holidays and other pleasures for the bliss of standing around and making the said human beings jump around a little bit livelier.

We have a few real slaves in these days, but a vast number of men who are required to make a noise like a door mat under some other man. This is a very disagreeable task, and fills the human door mats with a deep and fervent desire to rise far enough in life to acquire door mats of their own.

Authority is still necessary in this world, but it should be distributed very carefully. Some men have no more business with authority than a 5 year old boy has with his father's shotgun. There should be federal examinations in the use of authority, and the man who cannot grant an employee a chance to work for a living without keeping him perpetnally reminded of the fact that he may be fired at any moment when his taste in neckties, wives or humanity doesn't suit, should be enjoined from the authority business.

About the only people in this country who do not possess authority are office holders. It should always be a comfort to the man who is being bullied by his employer to think that at any time he may go to Washington if he can save enough money, and order his congressman around.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

Atchinson (Kan.) Globe.

What has become of the old joker who referred to a carpenter as a wood butcher?

It is difficult to make boys and elderly men with wrinkles in their necks do a good job of washing.

Some people are lucky and inherit fortunes, while others find it difficult to collect small bills from the dead.

This is the season when chickens enjoy themselves the most. Some of them scratch up garbages, and others parade the streets.

The thought of the world is becoming broader, and many men now concede that white-washing the hen house is a woman's work.

If you attract a crowd, you can make them pay for the privilege of gathering, if you wish to know how easy the people are.

No woman who wears a dirty kimono has a right to make any efforts toward converting any man whose chin is covered with tobacco juice.

A man smokes cigarettes, while a woman's corset interferes with her deep-breathing exercises. Still, we talk a good deal for a short-winded people.

An agent tries to be polite about his impudence. A lawyer hates a man who cries at his pleas and votes for conviction. Marching in the parade probably is the poorest form of outdoor amusement.

Promises held out by a sure thing are so insignificant most of us walk over them.

Most of the "white elephants" the women folks have trouble with have only two legs.

Detail in business probably is a splendid thing, but has driven a lot of men crazy.

Suggestion to a man being scolded by his wife: Say nothing. The storm will soon blow over.

Neither will your home life be happy if you go in for oriental rugs on a rag carpet income.

People are so polite that congratulations are frequently extended when condolences are due.

There are also people who spend so much time in careful preparation that they never get anything done.

The man with the hoe has been on the job for many years, but there are still plenty of weeds to work on.

Election forecasts after the election is over also add somewhat to the variety of our well known nation.

Women are so tenderhearted and all that, but many of them can be happy by making a man miserable.

Ab Adkins says his daughter will soon be home from school, and he probably will have to surrender the front porch.

An honest man earns his money before he spends it.

Perhaps your rights are being trampled upon, but it is sometimes very expensive to test the constitution.

If a man pays too much attention to opportunities in spring time he is apt to meet up with divorce proceedings.

It is well to ponder now and then, but you don't need to think so hard you can't see your friends when you meet them on the streets.

By the time his children reach the third grade they begin reminding a man how much he has forgotten since his own happy school days.

There is considerable difference, it seems, between the "cool, quiet hand" of a woman and the "cold, clammy hand" of a man. Jude Johnson: "I bought a dandy lawn mower yesterday. The handle, however, is a little too short for me, but 'is just right for the mowus."

A woman's view: Many a friendship has gone on the rocks because one of the parties to the deal regarded friendship as a license to be brutally frank.

Never Fails to Find It.

ing able to find anything in the room. But there is one thing he never fails to find, and the darker the night the better he can find it—it's a rocking chair, and she knows when he finds it.

DO NOT DISTRIBUTE FREE SEED

Reasons Why Experiment Stations Do Not Distribute Seeds Free Explained.

By D. J. Burleson, Assistant Agricultural, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.
Letters containing requests for free seeds are continually coming to the Experiment Station. To the writer of each of these letters it must be explained that Experiment Stations do not distribute free seeds, except to some individual in each selected locality where certain definite experiments are needed.

The following are among the reasons why stations do not engage in free distribution of seeds:

First—It would be illegal to use for this purpose any of the Federal funds which support the Stations.

Second—If free seeds were supplied to a few applicants, their neighbors would expect the same donation, and hence the increasing demand would soon require an enormous appropriation from the State.

Third—Such a policy would cause a great waste of funds as a result of giving seed to those farmers who are doing little to improve the seed they already have, and who would not keep pure any improved seed.

Fourth—Some farmers are in the seed breeding business and are doing much good. It would not be just for the Experiment Station to use its funds to compete with these farmers.
But this Station sells its small surplus of seeds at prices which do not injuriously compete with private growers.

Whenever any seed is bred upon the Station farm, such improved seed is first tested in careful experiments in various parts of the State. Then, if the new kind is successful, the public is encouraged to buy its seed, not from the Station, but from farmers who have been selected on the basis of special location and fitness for making such tests for a number of years.

CHRISTIAN SLAUGHTER CONTINUES IN ARMENIA

Julfa, Trans Caucasia, April 29.

A renewal of the recent massacres of Christians in Armenia is now in progress in the white district of Lake Van.

Conflicts between the Armenians and the Kurds are becoming more obdurate daily. An exceptionally fierce engagement is occurring today at Shatasch.

Fighting between the Kurds and Armenians has been going on for several weeks. In the center of the Lake Van district is the town of Van, an important seat of American Missions.

Washington, April 29.—E. S.
Martin, of Columbus, Ohio, super-the local Boy Scouts, today was arrested by order of Federal Dis-

FATHER AND HIS AUTO

Father bought an auto car,
Of thirty horse or so;
It traveled fast, as may believe,
Where'er he wished to go.
When he was reeling off the miles
At sixty seconds flat,
He failed to see a rock ahead
And hit it . . . that.

Then r . . . upon its drive wheels,
And turned clean up on apsidal
They gathered up the pieces
But father did not cuss

And made a jumpy bus.

How to Get Ready for This Sum- mer's Heat.

In the Better Babies department of the May Woman's Home Companion appears some practical advice to mothers on various housecleaning matters. On the subject of fighting flies successfully appears the following:
"Flies breed and thrive in filth and carry it into your home.
Be ready to see them go."

Women No Longer to Look Like Animated Bundles.

In the May Woman's Home Companion Grace Margaret Gould fashion editor of that publication writing on "The New Figure and its Corset," says that curves are in style again and corsets are corsets once more. Following is an extract from her article:
"Don't try your hardest to look like an animated bundle—you don't have to any more. Fashion has changed her mind about your figure. You can have pretty curves if you want to."
"The corsetless idea, originally intended for the young and slender, went a bit too far. It started right, as it had naturalness and comfort for its underlying principles, but it wandered far away from these. Women of all types and ages adopted it, at least for a while, and it ended in the sloppy, the shuffle, the sloppy-looking woman."

Now there is a new figure and a new corset to keep it in shape. Both suggest the well-setup, the military.
"Fashion said, 'Look corsetless and be natural,' and to look corsetless and be natural was every woman's aim. Some women wore no corsets at all; some wore girdles, and still some others—these generally the plump sters—wore tricot corsets with not a vestige of a bone. The result, to speak kindly, was far from pleasing. There are those not so kindly disposed who call it tragic."

"The new corset is the corset of its best. It brings back to women her natural line, the curve is made to follow the curves of the human body."

No Aches or Pains

Peruna Did It for Me.

"I find Peruna an excellent spring and summer medicine and am glad to call the attention of my friends to it. I know by experience that Peruna is a good medicine, and always recommend it whenever I have an opportunity. I can truthfully say that I have no traces of my old complaint, and have neither aches nor pains, and enjoy life. Words cannot express my appreciation for the good Peruna has done me."

PERUNA THE SPRING AND SUMMER MEDICINE.

"I used to get cramps in my stomach. I had sick headaches. My stomach nearly killed me. My family physician only gave me temporary relief. I got out of patience and had given up all hopes of recovery. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman and he advised me to take Peruna. I got a bottle of Peruna and commenced using it. Soon got better and am now entirely cured and feel like a new woman. Peruna is my comfort. I will never be without it." Mrs. Thomas M. Morgan, R. F. D. 2, Wadsworth, Ohio.

LESSON TEXT

1. And Saul spake to Jonathan his son, and to all his servants, that they should kill David.
2. But Jonathan, Saul's son, delighted much in David: and Jonathan told David, saying, Saul my father seeketh to kill thee: now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thyself until the morning, and abide in a secret place, and hide thyself:
3. And I will go out and stand beside my father in the field where thou art and I will commune with my father and thee: and when I see that I will tell thee.
4. And Jonathan spake good of David unto Saul his father, and said unto him, Let not the king sin against his servant, against David; because he hath not sinned against thee, and because his works have been to thee-ward very good:
5. For he did put his life in his hand, and slew the Philistine and the Lord wrought a great salvation for all Israel; thou sawest it, and didst rejoice, wherefore then wilt thou sin against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause?
6. And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan: and Saul said, As the Lord liveth, he shall not be slain.
7. And Jonathan called David and Jonathan shewed him all these things. And Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence, as in times past.
8. And there was war again, and David went out, and fought with the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter; and they fled from him.
9. And the evil spirit from the Lord was upon Saul, and he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand; and David played with his hand.
10. And Saul sought to smite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he slipped away out of Saul's presence, and he smote the javelin into the wall; and David fled, and escaped that night.
11. Saul also sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning; and Michael, David's wife told him, saying, If thou have not thy life tonight, tomorrow thou shalt be slain.
12. So Michael let David down through a window; and he went, and fled, and escaped.

On account of the pastor's absence two weeks ago the Memorial Supper was not observed. It will be observed tomorrow. ## STOMACH TROUBLES

Mr. Ragland Writes Interesting Letter on This Subject.

Madison Heights, Va.—Mr. Chas. A. Ragland, of this place, writes: "I have been taking Theodor's Black-Draught for indigestion, and other stomach troubles, also colds, and find it to be the very best medicine I have ever used."

After taking Black-Draught for a few days, I always feel like a new man. Nervousness, nausea, heartburn, pain in pit of stomach, and a feeling of fullness after eating, are sure symptoms of stomach trouble, and should be given the proper treatment, as your strength and health depend very largely upon your food and its digestion.

To get quick and permanent relief from these ailments, you should take a medicine of known curative merit.

Its 75 years of splendid success, in the treatment of just such troubles, proves the real merit of Theodor's Black-Draught. Safe, pleasant, gentle in action, and without bad after-effects, it is sure to benefit both young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25c. M. C. 122

Reciprocity Day—

The members of the Study club were the charming hostesses on yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock when they entertained their friends and the presidents of the other clubs at the elegant home of Mrs. T. H. McIntyre on South St. Andrews street.

Mrs. T. M. Barnett beautifully gown in white crepe de chine, and Mrs. T. H. McIntyre, in blue charmeuse, received the guests as they arrived and invited them to the punch bowl where Mrs. Walter Watford in rose charmeuse, and Mrs. Morris Ford in white lingerie, dispensed refreshing punch. The bowl was beautifully lanked in sweet peas.

The lovely home so well arranged for entertaining, was effectively decorated in beautiful spring flowers.

From the punch bowl the guests were invited to the living room which was very effective with its profusion of roses. Here they were introduced to the receiving line which was composed of the officers of the various clubs in the city. Mrs. J. N. Blaum, president of Study Club, gowned in yellow chiffon; Mrs. Morris Black, vice president of Study Club in blue Charmeuse; Mrs. L. G. Y. Baker, secretary of Study Club, in white lingerie; Mrs. Ernest Ford, director of Study Club, in lavender taffeta; Mrs. W. C. Piano Solo, (Bach) Mrs. Marie Harrison.

Report on City Improvement Club, Mrs. E. C. Porter.
Reading, The First Quarrel, (Tennyson) Mrs. Ernest Ford.

At the conclusion of the program a social hour was enjoyed and a delightful ice course was served by the members of the Study Club.

Concerning the Sixth District Meeting A. F. W. C.—
Owing to the increasing numbers of delegates and representatives that are planning to attend the Sixth District meeting May 4th and 5th, the committee having this in charge has decided to use the ladies parlor and adjoining room in the Foster Street Methodist church as a place of meeting instead of the Junior Department as previously planned.

Word comes from the various sections of the State that the plan of district meetings is receiving the hearty endorsement and co-operation of the club women.

A club member in Sixth District writes: "We have begun to realize that we have been inexcusably selfish in keeping just to ourselves. We have caught the vision of the good we can do by combining our efforts with those

HOLMAN REUNION.

On Thursday, April 29, 1915, the first reunion of the Holman clan was held at the palatial home of J. C. Holman in Hartford, Ala.

In February after attending the funeral of Mrs. Holman, relict of Dr. J. C. Holman in Ozark, the surviving sons decided to hold an annual family reunion commencing with the eldest, J. C. Holman.

In 1854 after graduating from a medical college in Philadelphia, Dr. J. C. Holman strided his horse at his old home in Grantville, Ga., to find a location, crossing the Chattahoochee near Columbia, enroute for Geneva.

This country was so sparsely settled that after riding late in the night he struck camp in the woods.

Dr. Holman commenced practicing in Geneva, practiced in Milltown, but finally located in Ozark, and died there. The doctor was a man of strong character and rigid principles. He was a strict prohibitionist, not even prescribing whiskey unless he did the mixing with other of others for the advancement of our section of the State primarily and then the state as a whole." Another woman says she has been asked by people in states that rank higher educationally than Alabama, "Why don't you Alabamians start some A B C classes in your state?" It is not conducive to state or county pride to know how "low the scale" we stand on the education charts but it will be a matter of something akin to shame if we allow our state to stand third from the bottom in illiteracy and our county to stand 48 from the top in literacy in the list of 67 counties, for a day longer than our combined efforts can improve conditions.

Wherever there is a woman's club—a live one—there will be found an interest in self improvement and public welfare—a striving after the higher and better things and a consequent submerging of the petty things.

Educating the mothers means educating the coming generation. The president of the Mothers' Congress said in her recent message: "It used to be that all was required of a mother was to be good. Now it has been amplified to be good for something, for many things, and in order to fill the new requirements she has to be intelligent."

It is earnestly hoped that our local club women will have as much interest in the coming meeting as has been manifested by those in other towns.

Visitors are cordially invited to attend the sessions which will open at 3 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. L. J. Haley, president of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs will address the meeting on the subject of "Woman's Clubs." Everyone who is interested in self-improvement and public welfare is urged to come regardless of club affiliation.

HOUSE FLY SHOULD BE CONTROLLED

LACK OF TOILET FACILITIES ON FARMS CAUSE OF MANY DEATHS.

SANITARY CLOSETS NEEDED

Can Be Constructed at a Cost of From Five to Ten Dollars. Cheaper Than Coffins.

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Auburn, Ala.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

In Alabama in 1913, 6,000 babies died before they were two years old. Possibly more than one-half of these deaths were due to bowel troubles produced by germs which were, in most cases, transmitted to their food, or drink by house flies. Typhoid fever claimed 900 victims, and of this number it is quite possible that the house flies were responsible for at least 300. Tuberculosis, diarrhoea, dysentery and other diseases are also spread by house flies.

One of the principal reasons for the large number of deaths from fly-borne diseases in Alabama is that so many of our farm homes are entirely without toilet facilities or have closets that do not exclude flies. A fairly satisfactory sanitary closet may be constructed at a cost of from $5.00 to $10 in money and a day's labor. Surely closets are cheaper than coffins. Let us, therefore, build more sanitary closets at a lower cost. Write to the Entomologist of the Experiment Station at Auburn for further information regarding the closet construction.

House flies may be easily controlled by careful handling of stale manure, proper closet construction and by the use of traps, fly paper, etc., around the house. A fairly satisfactory plan is to make a large trap which can be used over the garbage pail or other receptacle. Traps may be purchased at the stores at small cost, and if properly baited, should give good service. Attractive baits may be prepared with a piece of lightbread, a little butter and a little syrup. This combination is more effective if there is added to it about 7 per cent of formalin. Another good bait consists of lightbread with a small quantity of half milk and half water and a little syrup with about 5 per cent of formalin. The formalin can be left out, but the bait is more effective with it. Decaying bananas constitute a cheap and fairly attractive bait.

The breeding of house flies can best be controlled by scattering on the manure powdered borax, which comes from 5c to 10c per pound. The borax can be applied as powder, used at the rate of 10 ounces per 3 bushels or 10 cubic feet of manure. Two or three gallons of water should be applied after the borax is applied. A solution may be made of 10 pounds of borax in 32 gallons of water. Two gallons of this should be sprinkled over the manure and especially around the base of the pile.

To prevent flies the premises should be kept clean. Keep flies from having access to human excreta especially around the kitchen and dining room. Trap the flies. "Swat" the flies. Keep everything as clean as possible.
